Cable link prospects in shifting sands

It has been 15 months since Dr. Rosalind Thomas of the SAEX submarine cable project visited St Helena and promised the cable to become operational in mid 2020. Since then it has become alarmingly quiet around the cable's progress. Although the European Union has provided £18 million for the 50km branch to St Helena the funding of the trunk cable between South Africa and Brazil is still in murky waters and as the required seabed survey has still not happened the commissioning date has already slipped at least by a year to 2021 if it materializes at all.

It has always been clear that St Helena cannot afford a dedicated cable to Africa or Latin America as the cost of such would run into the hundreds of millions. The only way to land a fibre optic cable on St Helena would be when another cable runs close to the island from where a short branch to the island could be forked off. Unfortunately the only other cable project to come close to the island, Seaborn Networks' SABR cable (South Africa-Brazil) has not made any progress either, leaving us in desperation. However, with both the SAEX and SABR proposed cable projects finding it difficult to turn ideas into reality, two other proposals for South Atlantic cable routes are emerging.

Last week the Wall Street Journal revealed that two of the world's largest Internet companies known for their multi-billion investments in submarine cables, Facebook and Google, are both working on two separate cable systems around the African continent. Facebook's "Simba" cable would encircle the African continent while Google's "Equiano" cable would be laid off Africa's western coast. Large telecom companies like MTN Group and Vodafone are believed to be partners in these cable projects that will connect European and Asian data centres to the growing African telecom marques where more and more people use Facebook's and Google's services.

While the exact route and distance from St Helena remains unclear, these cable projects by Facebook and Google do spark our hopes for a fibre optic connection should they just be coming close enough so we can afford the branch and – even more importantly – should these companies be willing to add a branch to St Helena. Both are committed to close the digital divide and have been promoting universal basic Internet service through various initiatives like Internet.org and Mark Zuckerberg personally has stated data was, like food or water, a human right. How serious they are about their promises or if these are rather lip services remains to be seen.

But equally important is the question what SHG is doing to potentially tap into these cables. The Facebook and Google projects will be on the agenda at an Exco meeting next Tuesday; exactly how SHG is reacting to these changing circumstances is not known and will probably not be known as the Exco discussion and any decisions is on the Closed Agenda. It can only be hoped the approach taken by SHG will include quick and confident decisions – that is quality decisions SHG intend to stick with followed up by action and purpose. This is vital because now there is competition from others that are using similar ideas to St Helena's for a cable connection.

Last week the Bermuda Government sent a high-profile delegation to the Sub-Optic 2019 conference in New Orleans, one of the two major submarine cable conferences globally, where they promoted Bermuda as a submarine cable hub where future cables could interconnect. Therefore a national subsea corridor initiative has been launched and legislation to create a dedicated seabed corridor will be tabled in the House of Assembly in the next few months with the aim of attracting new cable business and boosting connectivity. This comes a year after the Bermuda Government launched a space programme seeking to establish satellite earth stations which was promoted during the Space Symposium organised by the Space Foundation in Colorado in April 2018, just two months after St Helena Government launched the South Atlantic Earth Station website at www.earthstation.sh. Back then Bermuda's Minister of Transport and Regulatory Affairs, Walter Roban, explained: "Bermuda is to reach for the stars and create legislation to govern space exploration mission control centres on the island. We believe there could be legal, regulatory and administrative roles for Bermuda in supporting these new and emerging technologies and business models."

The alert reader will notice that both proposals – that of attracting satellite earth stations as well as the idea of landing and interconnecting submarine cables to form a hub – have also been proposed and promoted for St Helena already years ago by the campaigners behind the Connect St Helena initiative. Unfortunately unlike Bermuda SHG has since not attended any industry events nor created the required legislation or any economic incentives for either satellite ground stations or further submarine cable landings.

Asked on the matter, Christian von der Ropp, who launched the initiative more than seven years ago, explained: "The substantial interest from the space industry to operate ground stations on St Helena proves the islands potential as a gateway to orbit; and the fact that St Helena is politically stable, surrounded by very deep waters and far from busy marine routes makes it ideal for the concept of a mid-Ocean cable hub. Particularly when you lay cables to Africa it could make sense for cable developers to use St Helena as a geopoliti-cally safe bridgehead. However I fear SHG could do much more to promote and to ready the island for these opportunities especially as St Helena's current regulatory regime with a monopolist telecoms provider acting as a gatekeeper is a serious barrier to any such ideas."

At least our fear of losing the financial aid for the cable from the European Union has been soothed recently when the Governor explained on Facebook, that SHG took receipt of 10 million Euros from the 1st Tranche of the EDF 11 programme and that in the event of a 'no deal'-Brexit the UK Government has agreed to meet the costs instead (also as grant funding)."

Google's proposed Equiano cable is named after Olaudah Equiano. Born in 1745 in what is now south eastern Nigeria. Equiano and his sister were captured when he was 11 years old and sold to slave traders.

In his autobiography Equiano describes his life as a slave in the service of a British Naval Officer and his years on slave ships as well as man o' war. He was an astute businessman and after purchasing his freedom in 1766 (for £5,400 at today's values) he travelled and continued to trade in fruit and glassware until settling in London in the 1780's. He assisted in the resettlement of Africans in Sierra Leone, married an English woman and was a leading figure in the anti-slavery movement. Olaudah Equiano's autobiography is entitled The Interesting Narrative, published in 1789 became a best seller available in several countries. Today Equiano's autobiography is published by Penguin Classics.

Your Opinion Counts

Dear Editor,

HELP!!; is there someone on Island who can tell me why it has become so difficult to be able to buy locally produced vegetables? Something seems to have gone terribly wrong when we are reduced to importing such basics like; onion, carrot, potatoes, pumpkin, beetroot and cabbage. I was also told that Chillies have been imported from Capetown.

PLEASE, is there an EXPERT on Island who can tell me how much of our hard earned money is going of Island to pay South African farmers, Iceland and Tesco instead of our own farmers.

Oh I nearly forgot; we actually import ICE CUBE

Checks and Balances. Where have we gone wrong?

In anticipation.

Dear Editor,

It would be very nice if shop owners and staff left some fresh produce for shoppers. My question to one shop "Please could I have....?" and the response was "Sorry sir, it's all been pre-ordered for my shop staff"..... until the next ship. So what is left for the shoppers?

Fruit that people have already rummaged through and handled numerous times to find the best in the box and all that is left are the rotten ones. Isn't it about time health and safety took notice if this unhygienic and selfish behaviour of shoppers.

Should we all now just pre-order our food for the month and not bother entering the shops?

Dear Editor,

I would like to say a massive THANK YOU to the following people who have assisted and supported me over the last few days after my accident last weekend.

WPC Sophie Crowie and Ambulance Driver Carl Thomas who was off duty on the night of the accident but came to assist me and even through my stubbornness of not wanting the ambulance they stood by my side until the ambulance arrived .....this plainly shows the dedication and commitment Sophie & Carl have to caring for our community in uniform or not.

Julian & Crystal at Wicked Wahoo who assist me in checking on me and seeking help, the medical team Martin, Jayne, Donald, Donna, Diana and Dr Jules for their professional support and attention on the night, my mum, son and all the family for their ongoing love & support and the many family and friends who called, IM, posted on my wall and stop me on the street for your concerns and wishes especially Ian, Issy, Sybil, & Sarah in the UK, auntie Mandy & Robert on the Falklands, auntie Elaine & Julie on Ascension Julian, Roxanne, Tina, Cherilee, Karla and my amazing colleagues at Saint FM who are supporting and giving me words of encouragement everyday. Without you guys I would be low but you kept me in full spirits throughout the last few days.

Also I would like to thanks Sister Wendy who assisted me on Sunday night when my wound opened and Eric who rushed me to hospital as quick as possible.

Words can't express how touched I am by the support and concern I have received from some but disappointed to say the amount of stories that are circulating is unbelievable but I know the truth and it was solo also the nasty remarks and gestures I have received from some, I disgusted but as Bob Marley say "don't worry about a thing as every little thing gonna be alright" and I believe it will sooner or later and my day will look brighter.

Editorial

There are plenty of places in the UK where it's possible to buy a good car for £5,000 or less; Peugeot, Toyota, Ford, Renault, Volvo, BMW, Ford. You name it, they are all there. Shipping a wonderful little bargain over here will cost more than the car. The new improved total freight rate for shipping passenger vehicles from the UK is now £5,746. That price is listed by AW Ship Management as the total freight rate but then they warn about bunker and currency adjustments as well as local fees customs and documentation. How on earth can anyone get around paying these prices just to get a set of wheels? Maybe there is an opportunity here for someone to start importing assembling and selling kit cars. Many kit cars are sporty but there must be some out there which are designed for more practical purposes, and if they come in a flat-pack there must be a saving on the freight rate.

With other imported cargo there are no alternatives; it's just grit your teeth and pay up. A full load reefer now costs £7,264 plus the adjustments, local fees and whatever else. If you can fit one thousand of whatever frozen food you are importing into one 20 foot container the freight rate puts £7.27 on the cost of each item – and then there is the import duty on top of that. Frightening isn't it.

While we are paying these increased, unsubsidised costs we hear on the radio our leaders agreeing that yes, tourist numbers are not as high as we would like but sooner or later this or that will happen and then we will get more people coming here and things will look rosier. The point is, we are paying the unsubsidised freight rates NOW not some time in the future when things might look a bit more promising. The unsubsidised freight rates are part of the deal for getting the airport. It was and is a bad deal. What it all boils down to is pay up in hard cash now; in return, sooner or later you may get more people flying in to spend their money with you. It may be a few more it may be something more than that, who knows – but you start paying now. As it happens not even the air service is subsidised at the moment. We are told Airlink made a small profit on the St Helena route but we are not told if it was £10 or £100,000.

The Scottish Islands are just off the Scottish mainland. Most ferries are operated by Caledonian MacBrayne; they have several routes none of which take more than one or two hours. In November 2017 a Freedom of Information request informed that the subsidy to the ferry operator had increased from £868 million a year to £975 million and the reasons why were given. Operating the shipping serve was more expensive so more subsidy required, improvements were needed to some vessels, an additional £22 million was needed for the company pension fund and a further few million was needed for a new ship.

With the RMS the subsidy we had was about £5 million in the last years. For us it was impossible to have an airport and the ship subsidy. In the Scottish Islands they have airports too and they are subsidised. Air services to the more remote islands have what they call lifeline services and the air operator is paid a subsidy to operate a minimum level of service. It's a different world with very different rules.

ST. HELENA'S OLDEST RESIDENT REACHES HER CENTENARY TOMORROW.....

Tomorrow, Mrs Elizabeth Peters of Half Tree Hollow, well-known to most as 'Muma Lizzie' will turn the grand age of 100, and congratulations are in order, as is a special telegram on the occasion from HM Queen Elizabeth II.

Muma Lizzie was born on 19 April 1919 to parents Thomas and Ida Williams, and they resided at Half-Moon, near Head o' Wain in Blue Hill, before her first marriage to Donald Scipio of High Point at the age of 22. Muma Lizzie bore three children – Wilson, Jean and Shirley before she was very sadly and unexpectedly widowed at the age of 32. She re-married in her early forties to Charles Peters of Half Tree Hollow and by the age of 45, she had had another four children – Iona, Patrick, Harold and Clarence.

Within Muma Lizzie's well-lived 100 years, she has known good times and bad times and she had to work extremely hard to support her family, but today no-one is more proud than Mrs Peters and her children, that she has reached such an outstanding milestone and they all thank God for still having Muma Lizzie in their lives.

Apart from a little difficulty in hearing, Muma Lizzie's faculties are in perfect condition and she enjoys watching DVD's and taking time to read her Bible and pray. The secret to living for 100 years, according to Muma Lizzie is to "say your prayers every day!" and that is why she can truly be called 'an amazing lady'

Muma Lizzie has many great stories to tell about her young life on St Helena and Saint FM/Independent hopes to speak with her again soon to hear first-hand, some of those interesting and heart-felt sentiments. Congratulations on reaching 100 Muma Lizzie! Sharon Wade

Renewables deal close to completion

Discussions and negotiations between SHG and PASH Global on the renewable energy project continue with no blocks or 'show-stoppers' identified. The Independent is told that some small details remain to be finalised before the deal can be agreed and signed off.

The PASH Global committee which assess project proposals meets once every two months. As each proposal they consider is assessed, any queries or alterations required are identified and the proposed project goes back for alteration or responses to queries. Two months later the PAS Global committee look at the proposed projects once again. As they delve deeper into the detail further queries are identified and clarifications requested. This can go on for some time and this seems to have been the case with the proposal for a renewable energy solution to St Helena's expensive, diesel turbine generated electricity.

The PASH Global committee now a few queries which will lead only to some minor changes to the draft agreement. All outstanding negotiating issues are expected to be cleared soon. However no-one is prepared to pin a date to when every section of the agreement and every clause within each section is agreed and signed off. The main thing is there is momentum behind the discussions and negotiations with no major sticking points. PASH claim to be able to save over 5,000 tonnes of CO2 by building infrastructure which generates a minimum of 85% of the St Helena's energy requirements. The biggest renewable energy project PASH has at present is in the Ukraine where solar energy capable of generating 145 megawatts and saving over 210,000 tonnes of CO2 is underway.

Astronomy Club off the launching pad

The St Helena Astronomy Club was conceived during a visit by astronomer Bob Brewer last year to coincide with International Dark Sky Week. This month ten of the many people who have shown interest in star-gazing met once more to adopt the constitution for the Astronomy Club and announce the club's official launch.

Chairman Derek Richards informed members that St Helena Tourism will loan telescopes and binoculars to the Astronomy Club when the club is fully operational. Tourism has a number of powerful portable telescopes and binoculars. The Astronomy Club now has Mark Westmoquette who has experience in astronomy. The club will now set up a programme of monthly events and encourage the many other people who showed an interest last year in joining an astronomy club to become members and participate in events such as star-gazing with a pot of plo or a BBQ. A Facebook page is to be set up and an email address.

The grey suited enforcers

Johnny Mercer is a Conservative Party MP in the House of Commons. He's an ex-army man and his old pals have been contacted by the grey suited enforcers who hide in the shadows along the corridors of power listening to the conversations of MPs who are falling out of line and need to be pulled back by use of threats or encouragement – usually threats. Johnny Mercer's old army friends have been contacted by those who enforce the 'wishes' of the pack leader – sorry party leader - and asked Mercer's friends for any 'dirt' they may like to share about his past. Surely there must be some embarrassing episodes in every soldier's life. But no. According to Johnny Mercer's true and faithful friends there was nothing they could say. The MP for Plymouth had been falling out of line on Brexit and may prove to be a contender for Conservative Party leader when Theresa May calls it a day. It's possible we'll see the end of May before the end of April.

Andrew Mitchell has fallen silent

Since visiting St Helena there have been one or two articles from Andrew Mitchell MP in the UK media about St Helena and the airport but in recent months there has been nothing. It may be he has been working behind the scenes, or been fully occupied with the Brexit fiasco or maybe he has forgotten about St Helena. His most recent public expressions have been directed towards Rwanda. In 1994 800,000 people were killed in Rwanda over a period of 100 days. Rwanda is now a much happier place and many of the leaders of the genocide have been brought to justice after being extradited from the countries they fled to. There are five more mass-murderers to be brought to justice and all live in Britain (four of them on benefits). After a decade of trying, attempts to get the British Courts to send the Rwandans back to face justice in their own country remain unsuccessful.

It cannot be denied Mr Mitchell has picked up a good cause to lend his weight to but, a few well chosen words in support of St Helena every now and again would not go amiss; especially as he is chairman of the St Helena All Party Parliamentary Group.

A former Overseas Territory feels let down

Back in 2014 there was a 79 day non-violent protest in Hong Kong seeking free and fair elections from the Chinese Government. The protestors did not get what they wanted and the Chinese leaders never forgot the protest that brought Hong Kong to a halt. Neither did they forget the leaders of the protest.

Recently nine of the people who led the protest were found guilty of a rarely used public order offence which became law in the days of colonial rule. The last British Governor of Hong Kong said it was, "appalling to use anachronistic common law charges in a vengeful pursuit of political events which took place in 2014" The prosecution of peaceful protestors by the Chinese is the latest in a long line of human rights violations which go against the agreement reached by Britain and China which extends to 2047. Despite the repeated Chinese action against the agreement the Foreign and Commonwealth office stay silent, as it does too often.

Many in the UK are saying the people of Hong Kong have been let down by broken promises from the British Government.

Senior government advisor sacked for prejudice

Professor Roger Scruton was promptly relieved of his duties after accusing the Chinese of breeding robots instead of children, saying George Soros, a mega-rich Hungarian Jew had created his own empire within Hungary and extremists had invented the word 'Islamophobia'. This was all too much, especially since Scruton had previously made some very public anti-gay, anti-Jew and anti-Muslim scathing comments. A spokeswoman for the Prime Minister said: "These comments are deeply offensive and completely unacceptable and it is right that he has been dismissed. He was appointed because of his expertise in the built environment, but his comments were clearly distracting from the work of the commission and it's right for him to no longer be a government adviser." A spokesperson for the Muslim Council of Britain said: "While we welcome the action taken by the government, there are serious questions to answer as to why Mr Scruton was appointed in the first place."

WASTE MANAGEMENT SERVICES EASTER OPERATIONS

The following is a Public Announcement from Waste Management Services of the Environment, Natural Resources & Planning Directorate:

Waste Management Services (WMS) would like to advise the public that there will be no changes to existing services over the Easter weekend.

Residents are requested to have their waste ready for collection by 6am on their normal collection day. Late placement of bins may result in missed collection.

It is normal for waste volume to increase at this time of year. Therefore, to maximise bin capacity, residents are advised to flatten all of their Easter Egg boxes prior to disposal.

Public areas and toilet cleaning services remain unchanged. Horse Point Landfill Site remains open to the public 24/7, including Public Holidays. Users are encouraged to recycle as much of their waste as possible prior to any disposal in the Bulky Waste Cell.

When camping, or in other recreational areas, do not litter. To protect the environment, please ensure that all litter is properly disposed of in the public litter bins provided, with larger volumes of litter bagged accordingly.

WMS would like to thank the public for their continued co-operation.

recently to improve the quality the construction among British builders. Another less fancifully named organisation, The Chartered Institute of Building (CIOB), has spoken out about falling standards. At a meeting in Parliament, a CIOB spokesman told MPs, "Quality, or rather the failure of quality, is arguably the most important issue facing the construction industry today. Buildings are not only key to our productivity as a nation, they also affect the quality of life for so many people and are the legacy that we leave behind for future generations. But when we get it wrong, the impact on people's lives and livelihoods can be massive, and somewhere along the way we seem to have lost sight of that." He added, "quality was being sacrificed to achieve targets, whether that be cost or time." A recent CIOB report, backed by a survey of building industry professionals, called for better education and training, improved certification and sign-off and better communication with related professional bodies and government. In the British news this month was a crane collapse at a hospital building site, the side of a house collapsed while alterations were being made to it, injuring one man and another man died in a separate incident when an internal wall of a house collapsed on top of him. A CIOB spokesman said, "What was needed was a complete change in the way that our industry approaches the delivery of quality on construction projects, from the top down and the bottom up."

Biggest UK Investment Company has list of warnings for Little Britain

Climate change is top if a list of concerns for an investment company managing £1 trillion worth of UK pension fund investments. Lack of gender, racial and other diversities, the poor quality of information provided by auditors, the cost and role of political lobbying and huge pay rises for company directors are also on the list.

Actions taken by Legal & General Investment Management to support their concerns include voting against the re-election of almost 4,000 directors last year due to their unsuitability. Legal & General voted against one hundred company chairman on the basis lack of gender equality implementation. A spokesman for the investment company said, "2018 was a record year for us as we continued to engage with companies on a broad range of issues, using our voting power to influence change on behalf of our clients. The increased figures reflect the higher standards we expect companies to adhere to".

The Bank of England recently warned that £15.3 trillion (£15,300,000,000,000) could be wiped off the value of companies due to climate change if companies continue to pay lip service to climate change but not take any meaningful action.

ANNUAL PRICE INFLATION RATE FALLS SLIGHTLY TO 4.1%

The St Helena Statistics Office today released estimates of the price inflation rate and the Retail Price Index. The latest rate of annual price inflation is estimated to be 4.1%, between the first quarter of 2019 and the first quarter of 2018. This is a 0.6 percentage point decrease from the rate in the previous quarter (Q4, 2018), when the annual price inflation rate was measured at 4.7%.

Annual price inflation rate, 2013 to Q1 2019

Compared to a year ago, average prices in all categories increased, except 'Household Goods and Services', which decreased slightly on average. On an annual basis, prices in the 'Communication' category saw the highest increase, up by 10.7% compared to a year ago because of the increase in the television and telephone tariffs that occurred during 2018. The category with the lowest annual rate was 'Household goods and services', where prices fell slightly, on average by 0.7%.

Prices of imported goods are affected by price inflation in South Africa and the United Kingdom, the exchange rate of the St Helena pound compared to the South African Rand, and other costs involved in importing goods, including freight rates and import taxes. In the United Kingdom, annual price inflation is relatively low at 1.9% in February 2018, and in South Africa inflation in February was similar to St Helena, at 4.1%. But over the last year the pound has strengthened considerably against the South African Rand; in February 2018, a St Helena pound bought 16.15 Rands on average, but in February 2019, the St Helena pound was worth 18.01 Rands – an 11.5% increase. This has the effect of making South African goods cheaper, offsetting some of the increases that may occur for other reasons (such as increasing freight rates). The full Statistical Bulletin can be found on the St Helena Government website here: <http://www.sainthelena.gov.sh/statistical-bulletin-no-4-2019-prices/>, detailed data can be accessed in Excel format from the 'Inflation' file at: www.sainthelena.gov.sh/statistics-data.

INFORMATION FROM THE MARITIME COMMUNITY REQUESTED

The St Helena Sea Rescue Service is currently creating a database of all Emergency Position Indicating Radio Beacons (EPIRBs) and Personal Locator Beacons (PLBs) on the Island.

Being able to identify a vessel is important when putting together a response & search plan. For example, if a vessel's EPIRB is activated but its position is not picked up, some local preliminary investigations to ascertain its last known position could be made, thus enabling Sea Rescue to organise a suitable response.

Beacon activation alerts, received by the Coast Station or Sea Rescue from any Maritime Rescue Coordination Centre (MRCC), contain a unique 15 hexadecimal character string (HEX ID). This HEX ID can be used to ascertain the vessel's identity.

Recently there have been a few alerts and the Sea Rescue Service has been unable to assist an MRCC in identifying the vessel.

The aim of the database of all EPIRBs and PLBs is to ensure that, upon receiving a beacon alert, this information will be readily available to Sea Rescue and the Coast Station.

Sea Rescue requests that owners of an EPIRB or PLB, please contact any the following persons with the required details:

Simon Wade (Sea Rescue Manager) Tel: 25215 or Email: simonwade@helanta.co.sh

Craig Scipio (Deputy Sea Rescue Manager) Tel: 25215 or Email: craigscipio@helanta.co.sh

Leeroy Caswell (Deputy Sea Rescue Manager) Tel: 25215 or Email: leeroy.caswell@helanta.co.sh

Marco Yon (Emergency Planning Officer) Tel: 25052 or Email: marco.yon@helanta.co.sh

Steve Kirk (Harbour Master) Tel: 22287 or Email: steve.kirk@sainthelena.gov.sh

The details required are:

1. Name of the EPIRB/PLB owner
2. Name of the vessel that the beacon belongs to
3. The beacon's Hex ID (a 15 digit alphanumeric code written or stamped on the EPIRB/PLB)
4. The battery expiry date (if known)

In due course, this database will be registered with Cospas Sarsat, who hold the International Beacon Registration Database (IBRD), therefore helping to ensure that this area of maritime safety is at the best possible level.

Protecting national interests after Brexit and – Oh yes! What about little old St Helena

A hectic scramble by the UK Government to get trade agreements in place before Brexit happens (if it ever does) includes replacing the Economic Partnership Agreement (EPA) between the European Union and Caribbean countries with one between the UK and the Caribbean countries. Similar agreements are being pursued or have been completed with most regions in Africa and the Pacific Islands.

The British Overseas Caribbean Territories of Anguilla, Turks and Caicos, Montserrat and Bermuda are closely associated with the organisation representing Caribbean trading interests (Cariforum) but not full members. In the Pacific the Cook Islands are directly represented through the Pacific EPA. The Cook Island has a relationship with New Zealand which is much the same as between St Helena and the UK. Across the Caribbean, Africa and the Pacific small island states whether self governing or not are in a stronger position to protect themselves on the international stage than any of the South Atlantic Islands.

A Jamaican newspaper reports on the recently completed Caribbean EPA, "The new agreement means that in future there will be a Ministerial joint council, a trade and development committee plus other working groups with the UK on agriculture, fisheries and technical issues. The new UK EPA will also see established a Cariforum-UK Parliamentary Committee and a Cariforum-UK Consultative Committee." Cariforum is the Caribbean community economy group which represents the interests of its members.

Strength in numbers – St Helena stands alone

St Helena is represented at the Joint Ministerial Council but there is no dedicated group or organisation which makes a case for St Helena's interests or for the South Atlantic Islands collectively. There are no Parliamentary or Consultative Committees which concern St Helena or the South Atlantic. If any working groups ever exist it must only be on an informal and temporary basis. The Joint Ministerial Council (JMC) brings together leaders from all the British Overseas Territories to discuss current issues with UK Government Ministers. Very often the issues tabled for discussion have been discussed often before via Skype, email and telephone. In many ways the JMC is a ceremonial occasion. Decisions are often formed during the detailed work in committees and working groups. St Helena and the South Atlantic are directly represented at working group and committee level only by exception.

St Helena does not have proper representation and full participation in international discussions on issues such as trade and economic development which affect St Helena's present and future; the Island is hidden behind the skirts of the UK Government. While exports and trade generally from and to St Helena is microscopic the effects of decisions made which actually work could be enormously beneficial for residents of this Island. On the other hand decisions which have no effect or are harmful to St Helena's prospects can have dire consequences. Remote controlled decision-making from Britain has a big chance of failing.

The future looks very much as if it will remain as it has done for too long. The recent report from the House of Commons Foreign Affairs Committee on Britain "Re-setting the Relationship" with the British Overseas Territories admitted the UK Government has too many more important priorities (Brexit, Brexit and Brexit) and cannot consider starting the first full inquiry into the Overseas Territories since 2008. They did recommend the various other House of Commons Committees that deal with St Helena issues from time to time should, "give serious consideration to establishing a formal mechanism by which members of the Foreign Affairs, Justice, International Development, Environment Food and Rural Affairs and other relevant Committees are able collectively to scrutinise the UK Government's administration of, spending on and policies towards the OTs." That recommendation looks very much like 'no change'. It's still others making our decisions for us and not necessarily consulting with us beforehand. If it had been recommended there should be some representatives of the Overseas Territories directly involved with this 'formal mechanism' there could have been a chance of a change in the old colonial attitude.

The Caribbean Free Trade Association and the Association of Caribbean States

In the meantime St Helena can look around for like-minded international organisations where joining forces and combining effort can be to this Island's mutual advantage and increase the chances of being heard and listened to.

It is anonymous and confidential.

The survey opens from Tuesday, 16 April 2019 and closes on Monday, 20 May 2019. You can complete the survey using any of the below options:

It is a case of 'whatever you can do we can do better' at the top of the English Premier League. Man City had a fairly comfortable 3-1 win away at Crystal Palace. Raheem Sterling scored twice against Crystal Palace to inspire Manchester City to a ninth straight Premier League win after a dominant performance at Selhurst Park.

Certainly there should have been pressure on Liverpool as they were due to play a Chelsea team who normally pick up points at Anfield. I for one predicted that Chelsea would win up until I saw the starting line-up. By playing Hazard as a false nine they hampered their star player and Liverpool was able to dominate the majority of the match.

Almost five years since Liverpool's title chances were ruined by a 2-0 defeat in the same fixture, the hosts kept themselves in the hunt for a first league title in 29 years with two goals in the space of two minutes that saw Anfield explode. After a nervy first half in which both sides had chances, Liverpool emerged from the break with added purpose and took the lead through Mane's header.

There was a huge sense of relief inside the ground, but that became a thunderous roar when Salah smashed a left-footed shot into the top right corner from 25 yards.

It was destiny for Liverpool to win this match as prior to the kick off Anfield paid tribute to the 96 fans that was killed at Hillsborough 30 years ago.

Liverpool fell silent on Monday to mark the 30th anniversary of the Hillsborough stadium disaster — where 96 fans lost their lives.

The city came to a standstill at 3.06pm — the exact time that the tragic incident occurred during the FA Cup semifinal between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest in 1989.

A banner featuring photographs of the 96 fans that died in Sheffield has also been hung outside St. George's Hall, Liverpool, along with the message 'Never Forgotten' and a lantern for each of the fans has been lit on the steps of the building. The Hillsborough disaster was a fatal crush of people during an FA Cup semi-final football match between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest at Hillsborough Stadium in Sheffield, England, on 15 April 1989. With 96 fatalities and 766 injuries, it remains the worst disaster in British sporting history.

Liverpool fans trying to escape the crush 30 years ago

In the race for the top 4 Spurs manage to beat Huddersfield Town 4-0 without their striker Harry Kane. Lucas Moura scored a brilliant hat-trick.

Other matches on Saturday saw Brighton lose 5-0 at home against Bournemouth; Burnley ease their relegation worries as they defeated Cardiff 2-0, Fulham beat Everton 2-0 and Southampton picked up a massive win against high flying Wolves.

In the late match Manchester United was extremely lucky to get all 3 points against West Ham. Pogba scored 2 penalties in a match that saw United underperform again.

On Monday a Ben Foster mistake and a Troy Deeney red card helped Arsenal climb back into the Premier League top four with victory at Watford.

Goalkeeper Foster gifted the Gunners an opening goal after 10 minutes when he took too long on the ball after collecting a back pass, allowing Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang to charge down his clearance and deflect the ball in.

Just a minute later, Watford captain Deeney was sent off for throwing his forearm into the face of Arsenal midfielder Lucas Torreira in a late challenge.

Despite playing with 10 men for 80 minutes, Watford offered the far greater threat, hitting the bar through Adam Masina's powerful drive from distance in the second half, and forcing Arsenal goalkeeper Bernd Leno into a number of excellent saves.

On Tuesday night Cardiff gave themselves a chance of Premier League survival as they beat Brighton 2-0 at the Amex stadium.

Brighton have now lost their past four games without scoring and are probably the only team that Cardiff can overhaul in their bid to avoid relegation to the Championship.

There are some interesting matches over the Easter period. Man City will face a difficult game 11.30 on Saturday as they face Spurs at home. Liverpool will play Cardiff on Sunday at 3pm.

Other matches on Saturday will see Bournemouth play Fulham; Huddersfield host Watford, West Ham play Leicester and Wolves will play relegation threaten Brighton. In the late game will see Newcastle play Southampton.

Other matches on Sunday Everton will play Manchester United at 12.30 and Arsenal will play Crystal Palace at 3pm.

Monday evening game will see Chelsea play at home against Burnley. The two matches on Tuesday will see Spurs play Brighton and Watford will host Southampton.

On Wednesday Wolves will play Arsenal at 18.45. At 7pm the Manchester derby will take place at Old Trafford. A defeat for City by United could hand Liverpool their first title in 29 years.

Manchester United crash out of the Champions League after they loss 3-0 away in Barcelona. For about 3 minutes Man United fans dared to believe as they create a couple of openings in the opening minutes. But mistakes by Young and then De Gea gifted the outstanding Messi 2 goals and the tie was over. Coutinho scored a brilliant third goal as the Spanish side dominate the game.

Ronaldo and Juventus also crashed out of the competition as they loss 2-1 at home against Ajax.

Due to this article going to print early I can't comment on the Champions League ties between Man City and Spurs and Liverpool and Porto.

Golf Report

It was another beautiful day on Sunday 14 April when 18 players participated in a Par 3 – One Club and Putter Competition.

Some of the players found this competition to be quite challenging as each player was only allowed one club (of their own preference) and a putter to use throughout the whole of the game, hence the title of the competition "One Club & Putter".

Playing a brilliant game was Eileen Wallace (the sponsor of the competition). She returned with an excellent net score of 48. Following Eileen was her side-kick Sean Nugent also with a good net score of 56. Well done guys. Realistically both of you should have taken 1st and 2nd places respectively but as Eileen was the sponsor for this competition both she and Sean forfeited their prizes awarding them to the players with the next best scores.

Therefore stepping up with the next best score to take 1st place was none other than Neil (Joe) Joshua with a net 58. There was a tie for 2nd place between Paddo Johnson and Anita Robbertse, both on net 61. After a countback was done over the last 5 holes Paddo emerged as the runner-up.

All had not been lost for Sean Nugent as he was very fortunate with winning 2, 2's of the 2 Ball pool along with Neil (Joe) Joshua who won a 2 as well.

Congratulations to all of the winners and huge thanks to Eileen for sponsoring this competition.

Coming up on Sunday 21 April (Easter Sunday) is an 18 Hole Stable ford Competition. If members are interested in playing then please put your name on the sign-up sheet on the club's notice board or leave a voicemail on 24421.

There will also be a friendly game of golf and a fish fry at the club on Easter Monday. If members' are interested they can contribute something towards the fish fry.

Have a good weekend, happy holidays.

Keep swinging.

RRS Discovery visited St Helena waters earlier this month. The National Oceanography Centre operate the RRS Discovery and RRS James Cook, two state-of-the-art oceanographic research vessels designed to carry scientists to some of Earth's most challenging environments, from tropical oceans to the edge of the ice sheets. The ships are fitted with some of the most scientific systems available and they both have dynamic positioning systems enabling them to hold station in all but the most violent weather. This, combined with the ability to deploy the ROV Isis, makes RRS Discovery and RRS James Cook two of the most advanced research vessels currently in service. RRS Discovery has a gross tonnage of 5954 tonnes, Wartsila propulsion and has 389 m2 of laboratory space. A noteworthy mention should be made of Kevin Williams, son of Mr Barry Williams (ex-Harbour Master on St Helena) and the late Mrs Alice Phillips. Kevin has recently been promoted to Marine Engineering Manager for the Royal Research Ships that are based at the National Oceanography Centre in Southampton, UK.
