Reservoirs Emptying at Alarming Rate

In just one week the rate of reduction in the amount of water held in reservoirs has accelerated by 30%. Last week the SHG press release reporting on the weekly meeting now held to review the water shortage pointed out that, "At the moment we are consuming around 280,000 litres more than we are collecting from our raw water stocks each day." After the weekly meeting held on Tuesday this week the situation had changed dramatically. The SHG report noted, "Current consumption is around 400,000 litres per day greater than the water flowing into reservoirs." This is an alarming increase in water 'expenditure' over water 'income' and there are no overdraft facilities.

Despite the warning that water usage would be restricted to essential use only and a hosepipe ban would be enforced from Monday of this week there has been no change in consumption levels. While demand for treated water continues unabated the amount of ground water draining into the reservoirs is drying up and will soon be just a trickle as the water table sinks further below ground.

Use of treated water needs to reduce by 30% before the dangerously low water levels in the reservoirs stabilise. Harper's No 3 reservoir now has just one metre of water. Last week it was reported that bowsering water was expensive and inefficient as the bowser can only carry 8,000 litres of water. However, this week bowsering has started water is being back-pumped from Chubb's Spring to Red Hill.

The rainfall during June has been insignificant with just a few light showers and short-lived periods of slightly heavier rain. None of this has had any effect on the water levels in reservoirs. This week's report of the weekly water review meeting includes the plea for witnesses to anyone seen using water irresponsibly to report the incident to Connect St Helena. Similarly, if a water leak is noticed, no matter how small, it should be immediately reported to Connect.

Every drop counts Every action counts

Everyone must save every drop of water possible.

One person attending the weekly water meeting commented it is time for drastic measures. People with stored rainwater from their roofs should consider filling buckets with stored rainwater and flushing the toilet with it to save treated mains water. And turn the tap off when brushing your teeth except when rinsing your mouth or the toothbrush.

Stop the Rain Dance – we're soaked

Rain Dance performed by North American Plains Indians

Five years ago the state leaders in North Dakota formally requested the North American Indians to stop performing the Rain Dance after the Red River burst its banks and there was widespread flooding. There are 30,000 North American Indians in North Dakota. Can someone persuade DFID to fund the travel expenses (Technical Co-operation) for a few of them to come here and perform the rain dance.

FORMAL OPENING OF SUPREME COURT MONDAY, 24 JUNE 2019

The formal opening of the St Helena Supreme Court took place at 10am today, Monday 24 June 2019.

The opening commenced as His Lordship, the Chief Justice, Charles Ekins Esq, entered the Courthouse accompanied by the Sheriff of St Helena, Mrs Ethel Yon OBE, Bishop Dale Bowers, and Chief Magistrate, Nicholas Aldridge (see photo attached). Lawyers, Justices of the Peace, officials, and members of the public were also in attendance.

Acting Attorney General, Allen Cansick, welcomed the Lord Chief Justice and introduced members of the Attorney General's Chambers, the Public Solicitor's Office, Lay Advocates and the Probation Service to the Supreme Court and welcomed back Andrew Jackson of Counsel. He further expressed the commitment of Government to the effective administration of justice.

This was followed by an address from the Chief Justice. In his address the Chief Justice acknowledged the successful completion by Ms Kerrie Johnson and Mr Alwyn Thomas of their respective training contracts in the Attorney General's Chambers.

The Chief Justice said:

The Chief Justice then noted the departure

Esteemed Editors,

An open appeal to all who will come and work on St Helena

If you are to leave a legacy on St Helena, it would be an untraceable footprint, having done nothing more than your job, St Helena does not need the arrogance of people who are determined to descend in all power and glory, proceed gently, gently, gently.

Get to know the community, ask their advice (don't pinch their ideas and pawn them off as your own), listen, reason, question and never tell people they're wrong, there is a high chance that you are.

Before you remove your shoes and start to get comfortable, a word to the wise, the community of people that you have been called to serve (yes serve) are the real Experts in all aspects of island life, this is their home which they will fiercely protect, you are invited into the circle to provide support and assistance, you will, of course, be paid handsomely for all your troubles, after all, is that not why you are here? Don't be ashamed to admit it, it is the number one reason why Saints leave.

REGISTRY OF LANDS, ST HELENA

28th June 2019

NOTICE is hereby given of an application by Mr Clayton Peters of No.32 Deadwood, St Helena Island, for registration as proprietor of Parcel 36 in the Registration Section for Deadwood. Such application is made by virtue of claimed peaceable, open and uninterrupted possession of said land for a period of at least 15 years.

A copy of the application and a plan of the said land are available for inspection at The Land Registry, Essex House, Jamestown, during normal office hours. Any person who wishes to make representations to the Registrar of Lands as to why this application should not be allowed must do so within 3 calendar months of the date of publication of this notice.

NICHOLAS ALDRIDGE, REGISTRAR OF LANDS

If you need to write reports (DFID are great fans of reports), we respect your dilemma, but let the contents be realistic and insightful, having drawn from the wealth of information that you have around you, may your report burst forth with fruitfulness and not provide home to the dust mites and fossilised remains of moths.

You will of course have received some form of a briefing before you arrive but nothing and nobody on earth can prepare you for life on St Helena, be prepared to learn, the people of St Helena are gracious, strong, intelligent and wise, theirs having been borne out of generations of adversity and hardship, their skills are astounding so don't try to impress them, they cannot be impressed, It's 517 years since their discovery and they remain one of the most remarkable nations of people on earth. Get involved with the community and family life immediately, locking yourself away in an apartment appearing only on Remembrance Day will do you no favours and will look like you have something to hide, oh, before I forget, don't try to be more than you are, they hate that.

And finally when you leave and you will leave, (extended contract periods are not encouraged) leave having not made a mark at all but with the island bestowing it's mark on you.

Now that we are clear, cup of tea?

Sincerely,
Friend of St Helena

It is not often a senior government official responds to an issue raised in the Independent with a letter offering an explanation and some information. It is therefore refreshing to be able to publish the letter sent to us by the Head of Planning about development starting at the site of the extension to the Dungeon Cemetery before development permission had been granted. Sympathy must be extended to Ismail Mohammed; he has only just taken over as Head of Planning and has not had time to get his feet under the table or keep his seat warm. Regrettably other people have put him in the hot seat. All of that notwithstanding, it has to be said the response was inadequate; leaving important questions unanswered. The phrasing in the letter suggests other people had a hand in what was written and how it was written. It will not be the first time such communications have been written by a committee of people who find themselves wriggling on the end of a hook.

The Planning Ordinance defines unauthorised development as "any development for which development permission has neither been granted nor deemed to have been granted under a General Development Order under section 16(2)". Section 16 tells us, "No person shall carry out any development unless, prior to the commencement of such development, appropriate development permission has been granted under this Ordinance". Then we come to the crunch. In the section on General Offences the Planning Ordinance states, "Any person who, without reasonable excuse— (a) carries out, or commences to carry out, any development contrary to section 16; is guilty of an offence for which the maximum penalty on conviction is (subject to any limitation of the powers of the Magistrates' Court) an unlimited fine or imprisonment for five years, or both." Those who have read the legal phrasing carefully will already have picked out the words which are the Get Out Of Gaol Free card. 'Without reasonable excuse' is the magic phrase.

In his letter Mr Mohammed explains the Dungeon Cemetery is completely full and urgent action was required to meet the requirement of an SHG policy which requires corpses to be buried within eleven days of death. So, there we have it; lawyers would love to be paid to have lengthy arguments on whether or not the excuse given is reasonable or whether SHG considers its policies are above the law.

Which brings us to another point worthy of energetic discussion; what were the circumstances which led to the Dungeon Cemetery being completely full and no plans or preparations made to extend the cemetery in good time for a smooth transition to the cemetery extension. Who is it who is sleeping on the job?

An advisor visited the Island recently at the invitation of SHG; his message was advance planning should be extended to thirty years ahead, the ten year plan does not look far enough ahead. This is probably a Big Ask when there are those among us who can only think about extending a cemetery when the last burial plot is being filled in – but the advisor does make an important point.

The UK has a target date of 2040 to introduce a ban on the sale of petrol and diesel fuelled cars. Some say the target is not good enough and there is talk of bring the date forward to 2030 or 2035. At present there are about 16,500 charging points for electric cars in the UK but it is estimated there will be one million electric cars in the UK by next year and 80,000 more charging points are needed right now. It's the UK Government who has set the 2040 target for zero carbon emissions. Hydrogen fuelled cars are also zero emission but the fact remains, we have a government who seem to think the job is done by setting a target but insufficient thought is given to how to achieve it.

How long will it be before SHG/DFID begin to get their heads around charging points for electric cars on this Island? What are the benefits, if any, of only allowing the import of hydrogen fuelled cars? What is the plan to phase out carbon fuelled vehicles, the re-fuelling stations and the disposal of carbon fuelled cars as the transition to zero emission vehicles gathers pace? If the UK target date for banning sales of carbon fuelled cars is brought forward to 2030 it is only just outside the scope of the recently introduced ten year plan. It's time to get moving.

A widely used estimate is that sea levels will rise by about 19 inches by 2050. It could be more, it could be a bit less. How will a rise in sea level of 19-25 inches affect Jamestown and Rupert's Valley? Were sea level change scenarios taken into account when the Rupert's Development Plan was drafted? What effect will there be on low lying coast from Lemon Valley around to Sandy Bay and through to Prosperous Bay Beach? To what extent will the action of the sea cause extra erosion to the cliff face and increase the risk of rockfall. At what point might West Rocks become an unsafe area?

Today, Executive Council is discussing strategic goals, objectives and proposed priorities for 2020-2023. Also for further discussion is the Medium Term Expenditure Framework up to 2023. According to the schedule Exco discussed strategic objectives and policy priorities earlier this month but it seems the schedule has slipped a bit. If Exco members can raise their heads and cast their minds towards 2050 they may think it useful to try to persuade her Majesty's Government to widen the brief of the UK Committee on Climate Change (an independent, statutory body established under the Climate Change Act 2008) to include the British Overseas Territories. The purpose of the Committee is to advise the UK Government and Devolved Administrations (Wales and Scotland) on emissions targets and report to Parliament on progress made in reducing greenhouse gas emissions and preparing for climate change. As usual British Overseas Territories were overlooked.

My name is Karin Mandelli but Kay can be easier to say

I have been on St. Helena Island for the past 9 months after having lived all around the UK for 10 years and as most of you will know, my origins are Italian and I was proudly born in the fashionable city of Milan. I have always been interested in reading, running, horse riding and rock climbing, although after arriving on the island, and admiring at the unique and spectacular sceneries, landscapes, nature and marine life, a passion for photography nurtured and consequently, I have recently completed my Photography Course, using the themes of heritage and nature.

Having just finished my GCSE exams and patiently awaiting for my results in August, I am currently doing work experience as a trainee radio presenter at Saint FM for around a month to further my knowledge in photo reporting, journalism and radio presenting. As my dream career would be photo reporting, I have decided to have some experience with the radio to start off. However, knowing that my dream career has many obstacles to surpass and is difficult to achieve immediately, I have chosen to become a Surgical First Assistant after having done my A levels, as science and the medical department has always interested me too.

Now, gossiping a bit about me, I believe that one evening I was "sea rescued" by a truly amazing, stunning and loving person to me and I am sure that everyone knows about it. Working at the radio for the past few days, has been a wonderful and intriguing experience, teaming up with regular presenters has made me realise and comprehend the work of the excitement behind the calming but also energetic tones that people hear on the radio. Furthermore, I have grasped the perception, feeling and enjoyment of being on air, working with amazing and lovely people here on the radio and am truly benefiting from the experience.

I am looking forward to continue working on Saint FM, as every day is a different day, where I can learn more and more and broaden my knowledge.

And as Susan-Fales Hill said "If you are too comfortable, it's time to move on. Terrified of what's next? You are on the right track".

Another Report on Connect St Helena Published

In March last year Lawson Henry had the support of other councillors in Legislative Council for a report on the cost of administration for Connect St Helena since divestment 2013. Lawson claimed the cost of Connect administration totalled £1,244million. This figure includes the start-up costs for separate and renovated buildings and transferring and recruiting staff. Lawson proposed reducing the yearly administrative costs by combining Connect administration with SHG. Combining the Connect and SHG Finance and Human Resources Departments were examples. Lawson also argued for closer oversight of Connect by SHG on policy and planning. Beyond that, Lawson stated the whole basis of electricity generation and supply, water collection and distribution and sewage disposal should be reviewed with the aim of finding a better and more efficient way to manage the Island's utilities so that savings can be passed on to consumers.

In May this year the Review of Utility Services Provision was published in response to Lawson Henry's motion to Legislative Council. The report was supplied by BDO UK (Binder Dijker Otte) a consultancy firm with a global reach specialising in Accountancy and Business Advice. Last Friday SHG announced the report is publicly available.

Below we take some of the main points made by Lawson Henry to support his motion at Legislative Council and match them with observations and conclusions made in the BDO report.

Sewerage

Should reflect tariff structure for water provision and future developments.

The BDO also produced a table showing price comparisons for the cost of 500 kWh (kilowatt hours) across various small islands. Based on 2018 average prices for St Helena the cost was £150. In Montserrat it was £160, Ascension £235.05, Alderney £198.60, Sark £330 and Aruba £74.94.

Lawson drew attention to Aruba in his motion to Legislative Council. He said, "Two years ago, I had the opportunity of visiting one of the Dutch territories, namely Aruba. They face similar problems to St Helena with their utilities, but instead of divesting they put their utilities out to contract with conditions that were favourable to the people and their economy. They not only have cheaper electricity, but the public buildings, including schools, are powered by solar energy and the surplus is sold to the grid. There have been other innovative ideas in their utilities. They bottle their own water, which is sold on the island and also exported. Electricity meters are fitted with computer chips to enable them to be read at a central point thus saving thousands of pounds for this to be done manually. The whole of their airport buildings are likewise operated by solar, including facilities to recharge electric vehicles, so it just shows that where there is a will there is a way."

There is no reference in the BDO report to Aruba's utility contracts compared to SHG's divestment strategy. Instead the report focuses on the renewable energy strategy which relies on a contract with PASH Global. One of the report's Key Findings is, "the Renewable Energy Project is implemented promptly and effectively. In this context, the unit price and conditions in the PPA (power purchase agreement) with PASH will be crucial in reducing the cost of energy provision; and opening the way for CSH and the URA (Utilities Regulatory Authority) to consider adjustments in the Electricity Tariffs and more modest increases in Water Tariffs – without inhibiting CSH's goal to break-even and achieve full cost recovery."

Referring specifically to the SHG divestment strategy the report states, "In follow up discussion with Executive Council it was noted that "The move towards divestment has highlighted a number of areas where costs can be saved. Combined with a restructuring of the system of tariffs, which is also explained at Annex A, this will facilitate the elimination of the utilities

A Main Lawson Point - St Helena has one of the highest electricity costs per unit in the world

The BDO Report concluded:-

Electricity

Consider re-instating Standing Charges to reflect the fixed costs of the service; current tariffs are set at appropriate levels to cover effective costs of service provision; and CSH (Connect St Helena) may be able to reduce average tariffs if PPA (power purchase agreement with PASH Global) prices result in significant savings in annual diesel costs.

Water

Increases required to reflect costs of providing the service and reduce the annual subsidy from SHG, however increases in the last two years have been a major concern for customers, SHG and the URA; CSH is under pressure to reduce unit costs and improve efficiency (e.g. significant reductions in NRW – Non Revenue Water); and CSH should consider possible adjustments in the charging structure to promote increased fairness and ability to pay.

Another Report on Connect St Helena Published

subsidy over the coming ten years. The financial basis for the operations of the government-owned company is identified in a Business Plan which has been circulated to all Elected Members. SHG's commitment to HMG under the MOU includes the elimination of untargeted subsidies, with the subsidy for Electricity being one of the most significant."

Lawson referred to DFID's involvement, "we have seen a considerable amount of investment into its infrastructure and network, including revamp of the Power Station and water infrastructure, all of which was funded by SHG through the capital programme provided by our partners in DfID " he told Legislative Council.

The BDO report also mentions DFID in connection with the MOU which was agreed by with Her Majesty's Government as a pre-condition for the airport go-ahead. "In considering the proposal to divest utilities, Executive Council noted that the 2011 Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between SHG and the Department for International Development (DFID) required SHG to eliminate untargeted subsidies, with the subsidy for Electricity being one of the most significant."

Lawson made a big point about reducing administrative costs. The report noted 76 Connect staff are evenly spread across Electricity, Water and Administration. Administrative expenses for 2017-18 are listed as Electricity £560,000, Water £551,000 and Sewage £51,000 which constitutes about 25% of total Connect income which comes mostly from utility bills. The BDO report draws attention to 'Non-Revenue Water' (NRW). NRW is water lost from burst pipes. It is recognised in the report that burst pipes are due mainly to "the inherited old and poor condition of the network assets, including many old pipes that were laid above ground which have been prone to frequent bursts". In the five years of Connect's existence NRW has more than doubled to 2,736,000 cubic meters, this is more than the volume of water which passes through water meters and is charged. The report also recognises Connect are now taking urgent action to reduce the volume of treated water which is wasted rather than charges for and that Connect aim to reduce the volume of NRW (Non Revenue Water) from the current 53% of total output of treated water to between 25% and 35%. Untreated water distribution is also subject to wastage due to burst pipes. The current amount wasted stands at around 47% of the total.

Along with improvements to the water distribution network to reduce wasted water the consultants recommend improvements in related areas such as regular repair and replacement of meters, accuracy of meter reading records and billing procedures. It is clear from these figures that a reduction in wasted water will help significantly in avoiding periods of water shortage.

One conclusion in the BDO report states, "In the first 5 years of operation, CSH has made significant progress through: (i) substantial and ongoing replacement of old assets; (ii) improvements in efficiency and productivity of the electricity service; and (iii) significant improvements in network performance and time taken to connect customers. However, CSH acknowledges that substantive improvements in the Water Service will take time – due to the inherited poor condition of the network and the assets, plus the costs and resources necessary to address the major issues. The financial results for the water service indicate that CSH is still faced with significant challenges to: (i) reduce unit costs; (ii) eliminate the annual subsidy; and (iii) promote substantive improvements to achieve full cost recovery."

The report added, "The assessment of the Key Tasks specified in the TOR demonstrate that CSH is achieving most of the main objectives set out in the Divestment Process and the targets highlighted in the legal Ordinance and the License. This is a considerable achievement given that the Company was only established in 2013 and had to address a wide range of key issues: (i) old and fully depreciated assets; (ii) inadequate tariff levels and other financial weaknesses; (iii) lack of coordinated management and administration; (iv) limited and old O&M (operations and maintenance)resources; (v) need for more consumer-oriented focus; etc."

Lawson Henry told the Independent yesterday that councillors will discuss the report at a future Informal Legco meeting; after councillors have had sufficient time to read the 80 page report.

LISTERIA UPDATE

The St Helena Health Directorate has today received confirmation from the local authority for North Country Quality Foods (NCQF) that the North Country branded products sourced by an importer on St Helena can now be released and once again made available for sale.

The imported North Country branded products i.e. canned pork roll and chopped pork were not handled in any way by North Country Cooked meats but are produced in Denmark and sold through NCQF.

The relevant importer has been notified that they can now release these products for sale.

ST HELENA COMMUNITY COLLEGE HOSTS LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES FAIR

The St Helena Community College (SHCC) hosted their Learning Opportunities Fair on Wednesday, 26 June 2019.

The aim of the Learning Opportunities Fair was to educate and encourage people on St Helena to take advantage of the wide array of training courses on offer at the SHCC to further develop their current skills and qualifications.

The Fair opened with a welcome speech by the Director, Wendy Benjamin. Wendy spoke about the mission of the Education & Employment Directorate, the purpose of the Learning Opportunities Fair, SHCC affiliations and encouraged all to utilise the opportunities provided by the Directorate.

Chairperson of the Education Committee, Councillor Christine Scipio, then gave some words of encouragement. Councillor Scipio said:

"Education is important for everyone at every level. St Helena Government, through the St Helena Community College, strives to ensure that every person on the Island has the opportunity to improve their academic and practical skills which is key to ensuring sustainable economic development for St Helena.

"I would encourage every person to be ambitious and enthusiastic about their future, challenge themselves, continue learning and make good use of the educational facilities that will allow them to follow their chosen career. We are part of a changing world and we do not know what the future holds."

Governor Dr Philip Rushbrook, in his speech, highlighted that education is a life-long journey and that continuing the pursuit of knowledge, skills and personal capabilities is vital for our territory, to build our opportunities and to stimulate more confidence, creativity and innovation.

Governor Rushbrook concluded:

"Nelson Mandela said 'Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world.' I would like to paraphrase that by saying: 'Education is the most powerful weapon we have to change the lives and prospects of St Helenians.' This Learning Opportunities Fair illustrates the opportunities for everyone to get involved, to improve your existing abilities or better still to learn new ones. I wish everyone, trainers and prospective learners, every success."

Throughout the Fair, information was available on the Apprenticeship Scheme, a range of ICT courses, Skills for Success, level 2 and 3 courses, higher level education and community education. The new SHCC Prospectus was also published and many of those in attendance were able to obtain a copy and seek further information.

Assistant Director of Lifelong Learning, Angie Benjamin, said: "The Learning Opportunities Fair 2019 was another successful event. It was a very positive and productive day and I would like to personally thank everyone who contributed to its success."

The SHCC would like to inform all members of the community who may have any questions regarding training opportunities or who would like a copy of the Prospectus and application and/or registration forms, to contact the SHCC on tel: 22607 or via email: shcc@sainthelena.gov.sh.

The difficult journey from Freight Terminal to Marine Centre

Today, Executive Council will discuss a development application to change the freight terminal at the seafront to a marine centre which is intended to include a visitor centre, a dry and wet laboratory, office space and research facilities. This application has been struggling through the planning process since at least February this year. When first considered by the Land Development Control Authority it was the last meeting convened by the now departed and monumentally incompetent previous Head of Planning. Basic questions from members of the Authority could not be answered and a decision was deferred until a site visit had been organised so members of the Authority could see clearly for themselves what was proposed. The development application was eventually recommended for approval to Executive Council with conditions attached.

The application proposes a change to the exterior of the building with a large window inserted into the south gable, a fence erected in front of the freight terminal from the Bastion which houses the cannon outside the passenger terminal up to the Old Mortuary. The fence will be broken up with a series of double gates. The fence will close off the open area between the passenger terminal and the freight terminal although a pair of double gates can give access if they are regularly opened. There has been one written objection to the development application based on the proposed changes having a severely detrimental effect on the general appearance of this part of a conservation area.

The Old Mortuary is listed as having Group Value while the Bastion is classified as Outstanding Group Value in the context of listed or protected historic buildings. Group Value is the lowest classification and since the buildings in between have been recently built a re-evaluation of the historic merit of the Bastion and the Old Mortuary could mean no building in the adjacent area is given any form of protected status. This is a sad fate for the wharf which has been described as one of the best surviving examples from the East India Company era.

The officer's report to Executive Council claims a Marine Centre will be a step forward in developing St Helena as a 'living laboratory' giving the opportunity to 'showcase' marine life, adding to the tourist attractions and offering visiting researchers a place to conduct their studies. It is claimed external funding in the region of £1million has been sourced from regular funders such as Darwin Plus and Cefas. However it is not clear whether the funding mentioned would be allocated to St Helena with or without a fenced-off Marine Visitor Centre. The officer's report to councillors also includes an optimistic assessment of what is described as 'research tourism'.

The list of stakeholders consulted on the application is said in the report to Exco to include the Waterfront Working Group however this group is not included in the list published on the SHG Website. 'Heritage' was also not consulted. The person submitting the written objection states he is a member of the Waterfront Working Group and the Group has not been consulted. Further, the freight terminal is fundamental to the Working Group's proposals. Information from all sides is limited and selective but the main impression given is a series of mix-ups and conflicting claims leading to a less than satisfactory conclusion.

The wharf in 1974; with the (tourist) attraction of East India Company architecture and original buildings more intact than is the case today.

Drawing from Planning Application

Your Opinion Counts

Dear Editor,

On Friday 28th, Exco will be advised to approve a new Marine Centre 'tourist attraction' at the wharf for Blue-Marine.

This will give the ten year old, stone-clad, Freight Terminal a large new glass balcony with patio doors, a huge modernistic gable on the roof, and a six foot fence across the front, from the Passenger Terminal towards the barrel vaulted Old Customs House.

It is completely out of place with the historic East India Company wharf. Although the advice denies this is a potential World Heritage Site, when the World Heritage Scoping Group met last Friday it agreed that as a unique survival of the East India Company, Jamestown and its wharf is most certainly a potential World Heritage Site.

The advice to Exco confirms the Heritage Society, a statutory planning consultee, was 'Not Consulted', but falsely claims its support, it also contains many incorrect planning policy references.

It is the duty of the planning officers and authority to have "special regard to the importance of... architectural, cultural, or historical heritage, of St Helena". At the 1st May meeting, on the planning officer's advice, the authority approved the plans even though the drawings were hidden from the public; as was the chief planning officer's conflict of interest as Head of Technical Services, who was responsible for the drawings. It now goes to Exco.

An approval will go against Goal 6 of the Sustainable Economic Development Plan, "Maintaining and enhancing St Helena's exceptional environment, landscape, heritage... for this generation and the next."

The new Governor recently referred to development, "whilst preserving and promoting what makes St Helena unique." This is a sensitive site so any development should reflect this by requiring thoughtful design. Exco must now ensure marine heritage development does not damage the island's unique world class East India Company heritage.

Regards
Andy Pearce

Direct and personal response from the Head of Planning

Last week the Independent published a photo of the road cut into a field at Brown's Hill to give access to the extension to the Dungeon Cemetery. The development was not thought to be contentious but the work started before development permission was given and the Decision Notice received by the applicant. The new Head of Planning, Ismail Mohammed, has sent his personal explanation of the circumstances attached to this application. Today, Executive Council will officially 'proclaim' the new cemetery at the Dungeon.

Dear Editor,

I write with reference to the article Works Starts on Dungeon Cemetery Extension printed on page three of last week's Independent newspaper.

It is most unfortunate that, due to the urgency of St Helena Government's burial responsibility, work on the Cemetery commenced before planning permission had been received. As Head of Planning and Building Control, I have undertaken an assessment of the Planning Application, carefully considering the impact of the proposal in the landscape and in view of the location being in close proximity to the current cemetery. Development of this site for a cemetery is in principle acceptable, bearing any strong planning or environmental based representation that would outweigh the social considerations. The Head of Properties was advised accordingly and due to the urgency in this respect, the fact that there were no more burial plots available in the present cemetery, the need to ensure that burial plots are made available as soon as possible and to be able to meet the SHG policy that burial should take place within 11 days, the proposed development was deemed acceptable without prejudice and subject to any representation that may be received by close of consultation on Friday, 21 June.

This is considered to be an exceptional circumstance as the need for a new cemetery is crucial for the Island and to ensure the dignity of the deceased and respect for bereavement of the families. Therefore, the need for urgent decision was necessary in this instance. The Planning and Building Control Service does not give any special preference to Planning Applications made by Government departments and wants to ensure and emphasise that work on development should not commence until planning permission is granted.

No representations were received in respect of this Planning Application at close of business on Friday, 21 June. A representation was received after the deadline and will be dealt with under delegated powers. Furthermore, there were no exceptional planning and environmental issues raised by this representation that outweighs the need to consider the late representation differently in reporting this Planning Application. This representation can be dealt with through an appropriate condition included on the planning permission.

Yours faithfully,

Season Ends With a Blast!!!

The 2019 Cricket season came to a close last Saturday on Francis Plain with a morning Wooden Spoon Match and the afternoon Knockout Final.

The presentation followed immediately and has quickly become a successful event with many players and fans terming it as one of the finest events to be held marking the end of a cricket season for many years.

The Knockout Final is the normal highlight of the season and marking the end of all four competitions was this year played between Jamestown Heat and Royal Challengers who had defeated Sandy Bay Pirates and Levelwood All-stars in the Semi Finals.

Batting first Jamestown Heat slowly built an innings which propelled them to a total of 124 in 25 overs, with notable contributions from Damien Obey and Dax Richards.

Royal Challengers started their innings poorly, seeing the Jamestown Heat claim three wickets in the first 2 overs and although they slowly settled, wickets were also falling until the introduction of Jordie Henry who quickly amassed a 70 partnership with Cliff Richards before being caught having scored 61 runs. Cliff went on to bring his total to 25 hitting a six over cow corner to win the game for the Challengers with 130 runs.

Supporting the event was more than 300 people who had arrived to watch the day's events which had started with the match between St Matthews Lions and the Woodpeckers which was won by the Lions.

At the presentation which followed almost immediately, Vice President Derek Richards thanks everyone who had taken part in the competitions throughout the season, he thanks the fans for being present throughout the past six months giving their support to their teams and the game and also the organizers, team captains and supporters for ensuring the Presentation Day was well organized and enjoyed. Mention was made of the performances throughout the season and in particular those who won individual awards.

Derek spoke of the recent international trip of Team St Helena who had travelled to Botswana to compete in the ICC T20 qualifiers, a trip he said which was useful and successful with Team St Helena finishing third behind Botswana and Namibia. He said there will be future challenges and opportunities for the team and the future looked very bright for St Helena cricket. He also congratulated Andrew Yon, who on the back of the international tournament was selected by the ICC for a high intensity training camp in Western Province in South Africa and praised him for his performances this past season, despite missing five weeks of the league competition.

Trophies and Medals were awarded by Miss St Helena Gemma Lawrence and whilst the Traditional Afternoon Tea was served, in the background there was a BBQ being done along with a Hog Roast which later that afternoon served more than 100 persons from a mixtures of the teams and their fans.

The Fire and Rescue Service deployed the fireworks for the occasion and the celebrations went on till late in the evening.

Spend Sunday afternoon at the Yacht Club

The yacht club at the wharf is now open every Sunday afternoon from 3pm. Members can take friends to sit down, have a drink and a snack and relax before it all starts again on Monday morning.

The new committee are getting things organised after the hectic time at the start of this year when one yacht race and two rallies brought almost half the usual number of yacht arrivals in one year to James Bay in just one month.

St Helena Yacht Club – a great place to relax on a Sunday afternoon

Membership renewals are now due, so a pleasant way to complete this formality is to call in on a Sunday afternoon to renew your membership and have a drink at the same time. New members are always very welcome. The subscription rate remains the same; £5 for single membership, £10 for family membership.

After the very popular fish-frys and similar get togethers held earlier this year a new programme of events is being organised – details to be announced shortly. The new St Helena Yacht Club committee is; - James Herne (Bosun) Stephen Coates (Commodore), Gavin Jack Thomas (Vice Commodore), Father David (Secretary), Sandie Walters (Treasurer). Father David is the main contact for details of future yacht club events.

Ningaloo beats St Helena to historic first

Last Thursday DIVE magazine reported the world's first recorded sighting of whale sharks mating – complete with high quality photographs. The historic sighting was made off the coast of Western Australia near Ningaloo where the 5th International Whale Shark Conference was recently held.

The white shape is the male whale shark, upside down, with the female whale shark above

The DIVE Magazine report was written by Mark 'Crowley' Russell who has visited St Helena to dive with whale sharks and written several articles for DIVE Magazine on St Helena whale sharks with stunning photographs. In his report on the Ningaloo sighting of mating whale sharks he writes, "The incredibly rare event, the first of its kind documented anywhere in the world, was captured by Tiffany Klein, a spotter pilot for Ningaloo Aviation, who helps tour operators and researchers from CSIRO (Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation) to locate and identify whale sharks and other large animals, such as humpback whales."

St Helena was represented at the 5th International Whale Shark Conference by Kenickie Andrews and Beth Taylor from the St Helena National Trust Marine Team. The conference ended less than one month ago and at the time the National Trust Marine Team were a big hit with conference delegates after hearing descriptions of the numbers of whale sharks gathering here and the unrecorded sightings of whale sharks mating.

The DIVE Magazine report also included, "It is known that pregnant females gather around the Galápagos Islands, and it was recently discovered that the remote South Atlantic island of St Helena is host to an annual congregation of whale sharks that sees adult males and females gather in almost equal numbers. St Helena is the only known location in the world where such a gathering takes place, and thought to be a meeting point for adult whale sharks to find a partner. Where they actually mate, however, and where they give birth, remains unknown." This article is linked to another Mark 'Crowley' Russell article headlined 'Scientists Believe St Helena Is Where Whale Sharks Go To Mate'.

We call whale sharks Bone Sharks, in Mexico they are called Dominoes. In the Philippines there are known as tuki-tuki, in Afrikaans it is walvishaai.

Maths Magic at Harford School

- a day of 'maths mayhem' based on 'Alice in Wonderland' by Lewis Carroll

Characters from Alice in Wonderland pondering the appearance of the Cheshire Cat

Pupils and staff of Harford School enjoyed a day of maths problem solving based on the book 'Alice in Wonderland' by Lewis Carroll. Lewis Carroll was himself a famous maths professor at Cambridge University in the 1800s and many of the weird and wonderful events that take place in the book are actually a parody of the new mathematical thinking that was creeping into Europe at the time.

Children throughout the school took part in practical maths workshops; some drew impossible figures and objects (Years 5 and 6) such as waterfalls where water defies gravity and falls upwards whilst others (Years 1 and 2) created inedible playdough cakes that dealt with fractions and ratios and made a person grow or shrink accordingly. Children in Nursery and Reception had to help Alice find her way out of complicated mazes and all students in Key Stage 2 (Years 3—6) were presented with their very own book of maths puzzles and conundrums entitled 'Alice in Numberland'.

The children were set a 'Mathematical Riddle Challenge'. In the novel, Alice meets the Mad Hatter at a tea party and during the course of the party the Mad Hatter poses the following riddle:

"Why is a raven like a writing desk?"

The answer in the book is a trifle disappointing and the Mad Hatter does not give us an answer. However, at Harford the winners of the Riddle Challenge were actually Reception and the reason why a raven is like a writing desk is because someone put a spell on it (obviously). Well done to Hollie for coming up with that one and to Diego for informing us that "those black birds are out Egg Island."

Mrs Drozdowskij commented: "It was wonderful to see the children so engrossed and enthused by their maths work. To them it was just fun, whereas as teachers we know they were actually working out some rather sophisticated maths conundrums." The day concluded with a cinematic popcorn and ice-cream fest with the whole school watching the film version of the book.

Headteacher has her mind read!

The day's festivities started with a whole school assembly led by the school's Maths Lead, Julia Drozdowskij. The assembly served as an introduction to 'Alice in Wonderland' and some of the maths that is contained within the book.

Children from Nursery right up to Year 6 were amazed when Mrs. Drozdowskij (dressed as the White Rabbit) appeared to read Mrs. Carlean Crowie's mind! The White Rabbit took control of the Headteacher's mind by asking some very probing maths questions and then predicting the answer to a totally unrelated question. Of course, it wasn't mind control (if it had been, Mrs Drozdowskij would have asked for a pay rise for the teachers) but was a simple case of mathematical probability.

St Helena, a branch of the Corona worldwide, celebrated the 65th anniversary of its' founding last June 2018, several events, including a special thanksgiving Evensong in St Paul's Cathedral on Sunday 24th June 2018 to mark this momentous anniversary. Though somewhat belated, the headquarters in London recently sent a special certificate to the St Helena branch in celebration of its' 65th anniversary
